

CAFR Investments and Monopoly Action Exposed

State #1 5%
company stock

Individual government entities in the United States are restricted by law from owning controlling stock in any one company. However, thousands of individual government entities might collectively own majority stock in many companies.

State #2 5%
company stock

The collective majority control comes through those thousands of individual government entities turning their stock holders voting rights over to a private association that will represent them by proxy.

State #3 5%
company stock

Therefore, the private association represents by proxy the collective vote of each individual government entity with the result of the private association having control over the majority of the stock of any targeted company. This means that the private association has control over a company's corporate board of directors. The directors can be voted out and replaced by the collective proxy vote of the private association.

State #4 5%
company stock

City #1 5%
company stock

Also, the private association can direct millions and billions of investment fund dollars into the company or companies of choice from the investment funds that it receives from the thousands of government entities, pension fund entities and other investor fund entities. This is monopoly power to engage in special interest projects.

City #2 5%
company stock

City #3 5%
company stock

=

5% stock voting rights of 11 different government entities is equal to 55% controlling stock when the vote is exercised collectively through a private association proxy vote.

City #4 5%
company stock

Corruption can come due to the private association having monopoly power without any monopoly restrictions. Any thinking concerned citizen might even see a possible connection here for the corruption in the military-industrial complex that President Dwight Eisenhower warned us about in his 1961 farewell address.

City #5 5%
company stock

City #6 5%
company stock

Not only is there danger for corruption due to greed for profits but, consider the danger for corruption in the possibilities for social engineering through media bias. Might the special interests of those in the private association involve taking control over media bias through exercising their corporate stock monopoly power? There is no doubt of the possibility for this control over the board of directors of major news media corporations as well as other targeted corporations that could be directed to promote the special interest designs of the proponents of Agenda 21.

City #7 5%
company stock